

IMS-Policy

WISSLER & RADEMACHER

Since 1957 we are manufacturing zinc diecastings at highest technical mainly for the automotive, electric and electronics as well as construction and furniture hardware industries at highest reliability, flexibility and service orientation. The key to success are the continuous improvement and development of product and service quality at maximum standards.

Other important basics to reach our demanding targets are:

- the maintenance and optimization of our integrated Management System (IMS), which contains systems for quality ISO 9001, our all environment ISO 14001, energy ISO 50001 as well as health and safety ISO 45001.
- a close cooperation with customers, partners and suppliers
- the improvement of customer satisfaction and the integration of partner and suppliers into our IMS is an important part of your general attitude
- saving resources and continuously improve our environmental performances
- considering all valid and relevant laws and regulations of obligations for our environment as well as to achieve our own environmental goals
- supporting our employees to effectively perform at highest motivation to develop our processes
- continuously keeping and maintaining the dialogue with our customers, employees, partners, suppliers and other interested parties
- we agree, respect and follow all ethical basics for a fair competition. This has been fixed in our "Code of Conduct"

Maintenance and improvement of our IMS is most important over all other activities and it is the major task of our management, so secure necessary resources for the implantation and realization at any time.
